

March 18, 2020

COVID-19 Cyber Security Risk - Challenges As Workforce Goes Home

In light of the fact that many people are going to work from home, we have found a great resource to share with our members regarding the cyber risks associated with employees working from home.

Please feel free to share this with all of your co-workers.

In this modern age of the “Internet-of-Everything,” the world has never experienced a pandemic like COVID-19. As we are collectively distracted by the global health crisis, cybercriminals are exploiting the situation in many ways. They prey on fear and urgency. They thrive in the chaos created by disruption to our workforce.

We hope you find the information and safety tips here useful and that you will call on us to help without hesitation.

CYBERSECURITY THREATS AND HOW TO STAY SAFE DURING THIS PANDEMIC

NMLTA Office: (505) 999-5804, Fax: (505) 243-3367, 1511 University Blvd. NE, Albuquerque, NM 87102
Facebook
Unsubscribe